Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Executive Board, the IRC staff, and the 2009 Conference Committee members, I welcome you to the 41st annual Illinois Reading Council Conference! With its theme Reading! Engage! Excite! Ignite! you are sure to find outstanding sessions, exceptional books, and many friendly faces to help you “live” the conference theme!

The conference theme evolved from a large banner that hangs in the front of my classroom. The banner reads: “In this classroom, if you LOVE TO READ, you’ll seldom have homework.” As a classroom teacher who is deeply concerned about the AFFECTIVE teaching of reading (the WILL to read) as well as the EFFECTIVE teaching of reading (the SKILL to read), I firmly believe that if teachers engage in reading themselves and are excited about reading, they will ignite their students’ enthusiasm for reading. Without a doubt, I truly believe in the positive power of reading.

Engage

Engaging students in reading can be as subtle as a well-performed teacher read-aloud or a purposeful student-led book talk. In fact, there are myriad ways we can engage students—especially those hard-to-reach, dig-in-their-heels, you-can’t-make-me-read, I’m-a-bad-reader-so-why-bother-types of students who populate our classrooms. As a classroom teacher, my two favorite ways to engage students are to read aloud to them and to provide opportunities for “word play.”

First, a well-performed teacher read-aloud allows all students, regardless of reading ability, to enjoy the same book, thus putting into place a solid cornerstone for building a literacy community within the classroom. Additionally, I use an activity I created called Thirty-Second Vocabulary. Students select a vocabulary word and have not less than 30 seconds nor longer than three minutes to teach the word to the class the following day. We have great fun! For example, once the entire class danced the hokey-pokey in unison. Another time when I entered my classroom, I was greeted by a baby goat tethered to my desk! Of course, a grinning group of students awaited my arrival as well! Thus, I firmly believe that what we educators commonly call “word work” should actually be “word play” so the words stay with students. In defense of my belief, let me offer one student’s sage remark, “Stupid stuff sticks.” Well, there you have it—engagement!

Excite

Once we’ve engaged our students in reading, we need to get them and keep them excited about reading. One of the best ways to get and keep students excited about reading is to let them choose the books they want to read and then give them time in class to read. Research (and my own classroom experience) indicates that giving students a choice in what they read and time to read their choices motivate students to read. Moreover, if we teachers read and talk about the books we read, students are more likely to catch our enthusiasm and excitement.

Ignite

Once we’ve engaged our students in appropriate and enjoyable reading and writing activities and have built excitement, they are ready to “take off” or ignite their enthusiasm for reading that hopefully will become a passion for reading—a passion so strong that they will become life-long readers. Igniting a passion for reading requires that students have easy access to books they want to read and instructional support from teachers when they struggle. Additionally, igniting a passion for reading requires that students view themselves as readers, and we teachers support and encourage that view.

What a challenge and privilege we have as we engage, excite, and ignite our students on their journey of life-long literacy!

Finally let me say that being chair of the 2009 conference has been exciting and enormously rewarding. I’ve learned, listened, and laughed a whole lot! Most importantly, however, I want to thank each of you for giving me the privilege of serving you as conference chair as together we embark on Reading! Engage! Excite! Ignite!

Warmest Regards,

Christine Boardman Moen

  - Saturday, March 21 – 7:00 a.m. - 9:00 a.m.

- Admission to Meetings
  Paid conferees receive a badge with their registration packet. Badges are required at all times and for all conference functions. Seating will be on a first come, first-served basis. Pre-purchased tickets are required for all meal functions.

- Special Accommodations
  Individuals who need special accommodations must make specific requests in writing to the IRC office three weeks prior to the conference in order for their needs to be met.

- Food
  All scheduled meal functions require pre-purchased tickets. The concession area in the Convention Center will be open during exhibit hours. The Abraham Lincoln Hotel will offer a cash Continental Breakfast on Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings. Springfield restaurant information will be available at the Hospitality table in the Convention Center Lobby.

- Hospitality & Information Table
  A hospitality and information table is located in the lobby of the Prairie Capital Convention Center.

- Message Board
  There will be a message board for conferees to leave notes in the registration area at the Convention Center. A phone line (217-788-8836) has been established at the Registration Desk to receive emergency phone calls.

- Lost and Found
  Inquire at the Registration Desk in the Convention Center regarding lost and found items. IRC is not responsible for lost or stolen items.

- IRC Conference is an Open Forum
  The IRC Conference serves as an open forum and exchange of ideas and opinions. Opinions that are expressed by program presenters and participants do not reflect endorsements by the Illinois Reading Council.

- Shuttle Service
  IRC will provide free shuttle service between the hotels/motels on the IRC Housing Form and the Prairie Capital Convention Center on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The Shuttle Schedule will be printed in the program book. Please note that all hotels have shuttle service information. Please ask at the front desk of your hotel.

- Preliminary Program Book
  In accordance with IRA guidelines, individuals have not been designated by titles. Acknowledgments to publishers and other companies for sponsoring speakers and special events are current as of this printing. Information in this preliminary program is subject to change.

- No Smoking
  In consideration of others we request your cooperation in observing the NO SMOKING regulations inside buildings.

- Cell Phones
  Please silence phones during sessions at the conference.

- Cancellation/Refund Policy
  Conference refund requests must be in writing and postmarked by March 1, 2009. Requests can also be emailed to irc@illinois-readingcouncil.org or faxed to (309) 454-3512. A $25 processing fee will be assessed. Please note that membership fees are non-refundable. Conference registration is transferable and replacement of names must be requested by March 5, 2009.
AUTOGRAPH SCHEDULE

Convention Center Exhibit Area

Prior to each autographing session, please purchase the books you wish to be autographed. Books are available at each author’s publisher’s booth or at Anderson’s book booth or PS Associates in the exhibit area. Most authors will be signing in the designated area located at the back of the exhibit hall. A separate line will be formed for each author.

Due to the number of authors and scheduling, it will not be possible for books to be left for later autographing. Some authors will sign only their name and do no personalizing.

Each author will sign a maximum of three books per person when that person is in the author’s line. If an individual would like to have more than three books signed by an author, there are two options:

a. Bring purchased books to Authors Signing Booth and ask for bookplates. (There are limited quantities.)

b. Go to the end of the line and wait to have three more books signed by the author. The author may or may not have time to sign additional books because authors agree to sign for specific time periods.

Presentations by authors are listed in the program book.

How to Get Students Excited About Reading, Reciting, and Performing Poetry

Bruce Lansky
Author
Minnetonka, Minnesota

Introduction: Donna Monti
IRC Past President, SRL Vice President
In this entertaining presentation, Lansky reveals how to have so much fun with poetry, your students will want to read more and write more. Included are some of his most entertaining ideas such as poetry races, poetry magic, poetry telepathy, poetry mysteries, poetry skits, poems you can sing, funny announcement poems, poems classroom guests (e.g., parents and principals) can recite. You’ll want to use these entertaining activities with your students to motivate them both to read more poetry and to listen more carefully when poetry is read.

Inside Words: Tools for Developing Academic Vocabulary
Janet Allen
Educator
Sanibel, Florida

Introduction: Kim Winter
Lewis & Clark Reading Council President
If you are frustrated with trying to find a vocabulary program that will help your students become effective readers, writers and speakers, then join us as we consider the components of an effective vocabulary program you would create. Janet will highlight four critical components of a comprehensive vocabulary program and model instruction that would support each of those.

Maureen Richel, Terry Rusin, Megan Masek, Agurann Bates, and Vicki Hodges
ISBE Reading First Staff
Kathleen Doyle and Jill Liapis
Illinois Reading First Early Reading Specialists

Introduction: Leslie Forsman
Mississippi Valley Reading Council President
Illinois Reading First Schools have learned that effective, successful, results-driven reading programs include the following components: supportive leadership with highly trained instructors; identification of, and commitment to measurable goals; constant communication amongst all stakeholders; ongoing assessments-benchmark and routine progress monitoring-useful in driving instruction and targeting intervention; delivering explicit instruction; and maximizing existing resources. The presentation will address each of these areas and explain how each one plays an integral role in the success of an effective reading climate.

Teaching the Information Generation: Moving from Tech Savvy to Text Savvy
Vicki Benson Castagna
Educator
Houston, Texas

Introduction: Adrienne Evans
IRC Region 7 Director
Today’s students have a world of information at their fingertips. However, growing up with access to so much information does not ensure that this “Information Generation” knows what to do with the information once they find it. Yet dealing with fact-filled texts is something that our students will contend with the rest of their school lives. Vicki Benson Castagna will help us understand how technology has impacted students’ ability to process information from text and how we as teachers can help move them from being tech savvy toward being text savvy!

Where Lincoln Walked
Raymond Bial
Author
Urbana, Illinois

Introduction: Reva Simpson
Illinois Valley Reading Council President
Through vivid color photographs, author Raymond Bial will follow in the footsteps of Abraham Lincoln, from his birthplace in Kentucky to his many years in Illinois. Based on his acclaimed book, Where Lincoln Walked, Raymond will show how teachers can use nonfiction materials to help children gain a greater appreciation for American history.

Creating Classroom Cultures of Thinking and Understanding
Debbie Miller
Educator
Littleton, Colorado

Introduction:  Mary Grom
IRC Region 2 Director
We all want our student to become thoughtful, strategic, independent readers. Immersing them in cultures of thinking is an important first step. Debbie will speak to the importance of modeling strategies for comprehension, teacher-talk that moves children forward, and authentic responses that serve as a means to comprehension as well as a measure.

I Hate to Read – Boys and Reading
John Coy
Author
Minneapolis, Minnesota

Introduction:  Christine Boardman Moen
IRC President-Elect, 2009 Conference Chair
What is going on–or not going on with boys and reading? Why do the same boys who are excited about leaning to read when they are five and six turn around and tell you they hate it a few years later? Author John Coy will discuss some of the barriers between boys and reading and share suggestions to get boys more engaged and involved with books and reading.

Teachers “Coach” Students as Editors “Coach”
Authors: Rebecca Caudill, Marguerite Henry and Franny Billingsley
Manuscript Drafts Reveal the Creative Writing Process
Karen Hoyle
University of Minnesota, Minneapolis
Teachers interact with student writers in a manner similar to an editor coaching even a famous author. Rebecca Caudill, Marguerite Henry and Franny Billingsley manuscript drafts reveal steps in the creative writing process. Each of them brainstormed by putting ideas down on paper and then developed the text. For their books THE BEST LOVED DOLL, KING OF THE WIND and THE FOLK KEEPER respectively, the authors self edited and then responded to outside suggestions. The presentation will be enhanced using overhead screens, power point or slides of materials in a Special Collection.

A Fresh Look at Conferring: Inside the Complete 4

Pam Allyn
Executive Director and Founder, LitLife
New York City, New York

Introduction: Tina Golchert
East Central-EIU Reading Council
Conferring is a structure that allows us to both assess our students wisely and well, and also to help us plan for our own best instructional opportunities. Conferring can also be a challenge and a frustration: how to know what to address when working with a struggling reader or writer? How will you know what your teaching points will and should be in a conference? This session, focused on the innovative Complete 4 approach to organizing your year and your teaching, will help you plan your conferences, assess your student readers and writers, and maximize your teaching time.

Teaching the Information Generation: Moving from Tech Savvy to Text Savvy

Vicki Benson Castagna
Educator
Houston, Texas

Introduction: Sue Sokolinski
Adult and Family Literacy Chair
Today’s students have a world of information at their fingertips. However, growing up with access to so much information does not ensure that this “Information Generation” knows what to do with the information once they find it. Yet dealing with fact-filled texts is something that our students will contend with the rest of their school lives. Vicki Benson Castagna will help us understand how technology has impacted students’ ability to process information from text and how we as teachers can help move them from being tech savvy toward being text savvy!

How to Get Students Excited About Writing Poetry

Bruce Lansky
Author
Minnetonka, Minnesota

Introduction: Leslie Forsman
Mississippi Valley Reading Council President,
ILLC President

In this interactive workshop, Lansky reveals proven techniques to help students learn how to write poetry that reads well. Lansky shows teachers how to figure out the rhythm and rhyme patterns of their students’ favorite poems—so they can write similar poems. He also shows teachers how to brainstorm with their students and then fit their ideas to a variety of different rhythm and rhyme patterns—so they read well. Lansky shows teachers how to write new couplets for insertion into the middle of Shel Silverstein’s “Sick” and a new poem called “Homework, Oh Homework, I Love You—So Well” (based on Jack Prelutsky’s popular “Homework, Oh Homework, I Hate You—You Stink”). Lansky will also cover limericks, haikus, and poems with very simple rhythms. Bring a pencil and paper.

The Prairie State Award for Excellence in Writing for Children honors an Illinois author whose body of work demonstrates excellence, engenders a love of literature, and embraces an important part of the Illinois Reading Council Mission – to promote lifelong literacy.

Congratulations!

Jim Aylesworth

Jim is the author of many popular books for children including Aunt Pitty Patty’s Piggy; Through the Night; Hanna’s Dogs; Little Bitty Mousie; Country Crossing; Old Black Fly; and Our Abe Lincoln. Jim’s experiences as a classroom teacher taught him how to create stories that children enjoy. His books include rhythmic chants, engaging text, and enchanting illustrations. He is known throughout the United States as an entertaining and enlightening speaker.

Jim, the fifth recipient of the prestigious Prairie State Award, will be honored at the Thursday night Prairie State Award Banquet where one lucky teacher in attendance will discover that his/her school has won an all-expense paid author visit from Jim for the 2009-2010 school year-courtesy of the Illinois Reading Council and Jim Aylesworth. Jim will also present a featured presentation on Thursday, March 19th and two presentations on Friday, March 20th. Don’t miss the wonderful opportunity to hear Jim read from one of his books at the popular Thursday night’s “Hear the Authors Read” event!

Brain Pathways to Successful Reading

Pamela Nevills
Educator/Author
Director of TEACHCalifornia
Fallbrook, California

Introduction: Jennifer Young
IRC Reading Educator of the Year Award Chair

Children’s brains may need assistance to “power up” and learn to pay attention, concentrate, remember, and organize instructional stimuli. These skills are precursors to reading. Children develop word analysis skills by redesigning the brain’s oral language pathway to become a decoding, reading pathway. The conversion happens through effective, efficient instruction, which includes discovering individual sounds and matching them to letters. This fascinating session combines what reading experts have discovered with information from neuroscience to understand what happens in children’s brains as they participate and become engaged with reading.

The Teacher Who Became An Author

Jim Aylesworth
Author
Chicago, Illinois

Introduction: Cheryl Walker
IRC Council Bylaws Chair, Lewis and Clark Reading Council Treasurer
Jim Aylesworth was a first grade teacher for twenty-five years. During that time, he read to his children nearly every single day, and he grew to love the books himself every bit as much as the children did. Here, Jim will describe how his many years as a teacher and reader gradually changed him into an author of more than thirty children’s books.

Reading Fluency and Thinking Quickly – It’s All About the Brain

Pamela Nevills
Educator/Author
Director of TEACHCalifornia
Fallbrook, California
Introduction: Kathleen Puchkors
_South Suburban Reading Council President_

Reading fluency is the new “darling” for researchers of reading skill development. Studies reveal surprising insights into how children read with speed, accuracy, prosody, and an apparent lack of effort. Reading fluency, an ultimate goal for the end of the third grade and beyond, depends upon accessing neuro-networks to identify words and phrases with automaticity. In classrooms some students read fluently and some students don’t. What can teachers do for children who are laborious readers? This session pulls together teaching strategies that students need to become successful, interested readers.

Getting It Wrong

Matt McElligott
Author and Educator
Sage College of Albany
Albany, New York

Introduction: Kim Dillon
Fox Valley Reading Council Co-President
How do authors and illustrators do what they do? Mostly, they make a lot of mistakes. Then they make a lot more. These mistakes are frustrating, depressing, and often the most important part of the process. We’ll take a walk through the ugly side of making books, and talk about how getting it wrong is often the only path to getting it right. To prove my point, I will show some work I really should have burned long, long ago.

The Teacher Who Became an Author

Jim Aylesworth
Author
Chicago, Illinois

Introduction: Tamara Springer
IRC Region 5 Director, Two Rivers Reading Council President
Jim Aylesworth was a first grade teacher for twenty-five years. During that time, he read to his children nearly every single day, and he grew to love the books himself every bit as much as the children did. Here, Jim will describe how his many years as a teacher and reader gradually changed him into an author of more than thirty children’s books.

You Are 2 Steps Away from Helping Struggling Readers

Intensive and Systematic Intervention for Students at Levels A–N

Irene C. Fountas & Gay Su Pinnell, authors of the best-selling books Guided Reading, Guiding Readers and Writers, and Teaching for Comprehending and Fluency, present:

Fountas & Pinnell Benchmark Assessment System
Assess and Understand Students' Reading Performance

One-on-one, comprehensive assessment to determine independent and instructional reading levels, for placing students on the Fountas & Pinnell A–Z Text Gradient, and for connecting assessment to instruction with the Continuum of Literacy Learning.

For samples, visit:

Fountas & Pinnell’s Benchmark Assessment System and Leveled Literacy Intervention (LLI)

Building on a lifetime of research and reflection, Fountas and Pinnell have taken their celebrated A–Z Text Gradient into a new realm as the foundation for comprehensive assessment and intervention systems that identify students at risk and monitor the academic progress of all students.

Fountas & Pinnell’s Benchmark Assessment System and Leveled Literacy Intervention (LLI) allow you to:

- conduct universal screening of students
- administer diagnostic assessment that defines the problem areas in measurable terms
- collect baseline data prior to intervention, and
- prepare a plan of intervention including measures for monitoring progress.

What Next? Improving Reading Comprehension in K-2 With Electronic Texts, and Interactive White Board Technology

Noel Ridge
Pacific Learning, New York, NY

Electronic texts can be masked, enlarged, highlighted and underlined by teacher and students so that comprehension strategies can be modeled and used. Students can then engage with the interactive texts, providing opportunities to develop their own texts, make choices and determine outcomes. Shared reading with electronic texts using interactive white board technology allows students and teachers to focus on and interact with the text, figuring out problems together.

Beyond Decoding – Building the Brain for Comprehension

Pamela Nevills
Educator/Author
Director of TEACHCalifornia
Fallbrook, California

Introduction: Janell Hartman
Northern Illinois Reading Council President
Current emphasis for teaching reading is understandably focused on phoneme awareness and decoding. However, to become competent readers students must also develop vocabulary networks and informational systems to rapidly process and comprehend text. Find out how a reader’s brain works when it accesses memory systems to effectively and efficiently read grade level material. This workshop identifies classroom practices of engagement and participation to help students build their brains as they read to learn.

Kindergarten Reading Interventions are a strategic way to reach Kindergarten students who are at risk for reading difficulties. The presentation will provide the audience with a five-step process for Kindergarten Literacy Interventions. These steps are assess and diagnose, teach/reteach, practice, application and reassess. The intervention model used was provided from the text, The Struggling Reader: Interventions that Work (Cooper, Chard, & Kiger, 2006). Each step will be paired with a sharing of example students and a turn and talk session for discussion of material presented. A videotaped session of Kindergarten Literacy Interventions will be used showing an intervention session. Also, videotaped interviews of the parents whose children participated in interventions will be shown. Participants will walk away with a strategic model for interventions, research knowledge about interventions and ideas for activities used during interventions.

PERFORMERS INCLUDE:

Brendan Dowling has spent the past nine years writing and performing in Chicago. He toured the country with Second City’s National Touring Company for a year and a half, followed by eight months performing with Second City on board the Norwegian Dawn. Recently, he appeared in Second City’s revival of their hit show, ‘Red Scare,’ in Denver and helped write and perform Second City Denver’s inaugural revue, ‘How I Lost My Denvironitry.’ Currently, Brendan performs with the Improvised Shakespeare Company at iO and Baby Wants Candy at the Apollo Theatre.

Dina Facklis has been performing sketch and improvisation since 1995. In Chicago, she teaches at the illustrious iO theatre, where she also performs with the groups. Virgin Daiquiri, Drained, and the Armando Diaz Theatrical Experience and Hootenany. Dina also toured with and currently directs for the Second City. In 2005, Dina made her first appearance in a feature film: She played Nicholas Cage’s secretary in THE WEATHER MAN. She is delighted to be here.

Beth Melewski is a former member of The Second City National Touring Company and The Second City Denver where she co-wrote and performed the original review How I Lost My Denveranity. She performs with the all female group Virgin Daiquiri at iO Chicago and the musical improv group Baby Wants Candy at the Apollo theater. She is proud to be one half of the improv duo Dual Exhaust named by The Chicago Sun-Times as one of the “top 10 comedy duos of the past 10 years”.

Sue Salvi has been improvising and teaching improvisation for 10 years. She has toured internationally with the Second City touring company, performing both on land and at sea and has co-facilitated corporate workshops with the Second City Communications. She is a co-founder of the sketch comedy group, ‘Brick’ and performs frequently at the IO Theater in Chicago.

Cayne Collier (born and raised in New Orleans, LA) has been performing stand-up, improvisational, and sketch comedy for 17 years - for 14 years, based out of Chicago, IL. Cayne has studied improv with iO (formerly ImprovOlympic) and Second City. For ten years Cayne was the owner, producer and emcee of “The Elevated” – Chicago’s critically acclaimed stand-up comedy showcase. In 2005, Cayne was The Chicago Tribune’s “Chicagoan of the Year” for Comedy. Cayne was a member of ComedySportz Chicago for over a decade and a member of The Second City Touring Company for almost two years. Cayne is also a founding member, writer, and performer of the acclaimed sketch group, Brick.

Brian Morris is thrilled to be back in his adopted hometown tonight to perform for Illinois’ capital citizens. He has worked as a musical director at The Second City for several years serving as a Mainstage understudy, touring with the National Touring Company, and sailing with casts aboard Norwegian Cruise Lines ships in the Caribbean and Mediterranean Seas. His musical education includes The Muppets and theme songs from 1980’s sit-coms. He would like to thank his family and this talented cast.

Revise & Renew Reading Buddies (Polar Poetry Partners)
Karen Leffelman
Highlands Elementary, School District 203,
Naperville
Our school pairs grade levels to read together. As the Reading Specialist, I utilized the same amount of time for the buddies, but created more purposeful materials to support the RtI process. Our goal was to teach concepts of print, left-right, one-to-one tracking, and initial sight vocabulary to our Kindergarten students using their 3rd grade buddies. With simple directions the 3rd graders would guide their kindergarten buddy and gradually release the responsibility of early literacy skills. The specialist created a crate for each kindergarten teacher to use & modeled for the 3rd graders how to work as a tutor for literacy. Pre & post testing of the ISEL was used to monitor progress. For 2nd & 5th grade buddies, poems were used for echo reading to teach phrasing for fluency. Comprehension questions were also included with each poem. Crates to house the poems in a systematic way were made for each 2nd grade class. The Specialist modeled for the 5th graders on how to work with their 2nd grader on phrasing and rereading to find answers in the text. Progress monitoring was completed to mark growth. Directions to create these materials & samples will be given to those in attendance.

Selection Strategies that Increase Engagement in Your Independent Readers

Jessica Wutz
Metcalf School, Normal
Linda Wedwick
Illinois State University, Normal

No two readers are the same and when matching students to books for independent reading time, different criteria for each individual reader needs to be taken into consideration while showing them how to strategically and effectively select “just-right” books. You will learn how to set up and manage an effective independent reading time in which students truly engage in the practice of reading while building a positive attitude.

The Heroes of My Life
   Patricia Polacco
   Author
   Union City, Michigan
Introduction: Roxanne Owens
   IRC President
Patricia thanks the heroes who have made a difference in her life. She pays homage to the distinct people and their ilk that have inspired her to become the person she is today…those who continue to make the biggest difference in the world each and every day, insuring the preservation and well being of our most precious resource…our children. In addition to offering a glimpse into her past from personal triumphs (learning to read), to family heirlooms (Anna’s quilt), this presentation is aimed at teachers, parents, librarians, men and women alike, intended to uplift, inspire, and acclaim those heroes, who have devoted their lives to our children.

Request for Membership on IRC Standing and Standing Committees 2009 - 2010

Please consider becoming more involved in the Illinois Reading Council. Members of the local reading councils may nominate individuals to serve on committees or submit their own names for consideration. Below are brief descriptions of committee goals.

Adult and Family Literacy Committee - Collect and disseminate information dealing with adult and family literacy.

Bylaws, Policies and Procedures Committee - Review and update the IRC bylaws and policies.

Legislative Committee - Gather and disseminate information concerning legislation related to reading.

Intellectual Freedom Committee - Collect and disseminate information concerning censorship of reading materials.

IRC Grant Committee - Recommend financial grants for literacy projects.

Membership Committee - Stimulate membership of IRA, state, local, and special interest councils and coordinate activities of the councils.

Newspaper in Education Committee - Promote activities for Newspaper in Education Week.

Parents and Reading Committee - Collect and disseminate information dealing with parent involvement and concerns with instruction in reading.

Prairie State Award Committee - Review nominations to select an outstanding Illinois children’s/YA author.

Program Committee - Make plans for the annual conference of the council.

Publications Committee - Explore needs for publications in reading.

Studies and Research Committee - Facilitate, conduct and implement, and disseminate literacy research from infancy through adulthood.

Illinois Reading Council

MISSION
The mission of the Illinois Reading Council is to provide support and leadership to educators as they promote and teach lifelong literacy.

VISION
The Illinois Reading Council advocates quality literacy opportunities for all learners and serves as a primary organization that provides educators at all levels access to research, materials, and methodologies to promote and teach lifelong literacy and learning. Support of an active, well-organized system of local and special interest councils and state committees provides a viable network for communication, exchange of information, and grass roots involvement of a diverse membership. The IRC’s publications, special projects, conferences, and workshops stimulate personal and professional growth of educators.
