Harvesting the
Fruits of Literacy

October 2-4, 2014
Springfield, Illinois
Building on the best practices and proven frameworks in their original Units of Study for Teaching Writing series, Lucy Calkins and colleagues from the Teachers College Reading and Writing Project offer a new series with grade-by-grade plans for teaching writing workshops that help all students become strong, confident writers.

These new units of study will:

- help you teach opinion/argument, information, and narrative writing with increasing complexity and sophistication
- foster high-level thinking, including regular chances to synthesize, analyze, and critique
- develop and refine strategies for writing across the curriculum
- support greater independence and fluency through intensive writing opportunities
- include strategic performance assessments to help monitor mastery and differentiate instruction
- provide a ladder of writing progressions across the elementary and middle school grades.

So, if we are together in Springfield for the IRC Conference, this must be March, right? We are here to “Harvest the Fruits of Literacy” with our first-ever fall conference, and we hope the timing works out well. Unfortunately, our change to a fall conference means that some of our members will not be among us due to our dates being in conflict with an important and holy day. That conflict will certainly never happen again, and we look forward to our friends rejoining us next year.

A record number of program proposals were submitted for this conference and many of them promise that teachers will leave the sessions with things to try on Monday. Won’t it be nice to take ideas and enthusiasm from the conference and still be at the beginning of an exciting school year?

I took great joy in inviting the 36 featured speakers. Many are from our own state, but when the field is reading and the state is Illinois, drawing from home leads to a lineup of nationally recognized speakers. That is what you will find here. You will also find an all-star cast of authors of children’s, adolescent, and young adult literature. No doubt some are your favorites, and some soon will be.

Please enjoy these dates among colleagues, new friends, and exciting and challenging ideas. While you’re at it, consider reaching out to let someone know you want the Illinois Reading Council to become a larger part of your professional life.

This is going to be a blast!

GENERAL CONFERENCE INFORMATION

Please take a moment to read the information below regarding the 2014 IRC Conference.

• IRC Conference is an Open Forum
The IRC Conference serves as an open forum and for exchange of ideas and opinions. Opinions that are expressed by program presenters and participants do not reflect endorsements by the Illinois Reading Council.

• Conference Sessions
All conference sessions will be held in the Prairie Capital Convention Center, the Abraham Lincoln Hotel, and the Hilton Springfield Hotel.

• Pre-Registration & Registration
Pre-registered conferees may obtain their registration packets at the Registration Desk in the Prairie Capital Convention Center Lobby. On-site registration is also available. Hotel reservations and meal function tickets should be secured prior to arrival in Springfield. Meal functions usually sell out early.

  Registration Hours:
  Wednesday, October 1 – 5:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
  Thursday, October 2 – 7:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.
  Friday, October 3 – 7:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.
  Saturday, October 4 – 7:00 a.m. - 9:00 a.m.

• Admission to Meetings
Paid conferees receive a badge with their registration packet. Badges are required at all times and for all conference functions. Seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Pre-purchased tickets are required for all meal functions.

• Special Accommodations
Individuals who need special accommodations should make specific requests in writing to the IRC office three weeks prior to the conference in order for their needs to be met.

• Food
All scheduled meal functions require pre-purchased tickets. The concession area in the Convention Center will be open during exhibit hours. Springfield restaurant information will be available at the hospitality table in the Convention Center Lobby.

• Hospitality & Information Table
A hospitality and information table is located in the lobby of the Prairie Capital Convention Center.

• Message Board
There will be a message board for conferees to leave notes in the registration area at the Convention Center. A phone line (217-788-8836) has been established at the Registration Desk to receive emergency phone calls.

• Lost and Found
Inquire at the Registration Desk in the Convention Center regarding lost and found items. IRC is not responsible for lost or stolen items.

• Shuttle Service
IRC will provide free shuttle service between the hotels/motels on the IRC Housing Form and the Prairie Capital Convention Center on Thursday and Friday. The Shuttle Schedule will be printed in the program book. Please note that all hotels have shuttle service information. On Saturday, there are many parking options available and on-street parking is FREE.

• Final Program Book
In accordance with IRA guidelines, individuals have not been designated by titles. Acknowledgments to publishers and other companies for sponsoring speakers and special events are current as of this printing. Information in this program is subject to change.

• No Smoking
In consideration of others we request your cooperation in observing the NO SMOKING regulations inside buildings.

• Cell Phones
Please silence phones during sessions at the conference.

• Videotaping/Audiotaping/Photos
Unless notified in writing, registration to the conference constitutes an agreement that the registrant’s image, likeness, and appearance can be used in photographs of such events and activities. It is also not permitted to videotape, audiotape, or take photos of conference speakers without the speaker’s consent.

• Cancellation/Refund Policy
Conference refund requests must be in writing and postmarked by September 15, 2014. Requests can also be faxed to (309) 454-3512 or emailed to irc@illinoisreadingcouncil.org. A $25 processing fee will be assessed. Please note that membership fees are non-refundable. Conference registration is transferable and replacement of names must be requested by September 15, 2014.
The Illinois Reading Council is an approved Illinois State Board of Education Professional Development provider. While attending the October Conference, you may earn one CLOCK HOUR per hour of attendance and participation. Sessions attended must be logged, and an ISBE evaluation form must be completed and deposited in the IRC evaluation box at the end of the conference. The Evaluation and Evidence of Completion Forms must also be completed for your records. Please review your personal License Renewal Plan to determine which sessions fit. Be sure that your goals are broad enough to include a variety of literacy topics. The Illinois Reading Council is merely the provider. The responsibility for determining which sessions agree with your plan and are granted credits by your school district is yours.

One semester hour of university credit will be available for attending the conference. For more information, download the College Credit Registration form available on the IRC Website.

HOW TO PLAY

Download the FREE IRC Conference App powered by Guidebook from the Apple Store or Android Marketplace. Then, search for the October 2014 Illinois Reading Council Conference Guide. Or, scan the QR Code shown below to visit https://guidebook.com/g/qk78w54y/.

At the conference, ask the exhibitors for help finding the hidden QR codes. Here’s a clue: each exhibitor has been given one of the 20 color-coded QR Codes that solves the puzzle.

Once you have found all the QR Codes and completed the entire phrase in your guide, show it to the Registration Booth for a raffle ticket to be eligible to win one of 2 FREE OCTOBER 2015 IRC Conference Registrations to be given away. The drawings will be held at the Exhibit Hall Extravaganza at 4:00 pm on Thursday, October 2, 2014 and at 3:30 pm on Friday, October 3, 2014 in the Exhibit Hall. Raffle tickets can be completed and deposited at the Membership Booth or Registration Booth. Good Luck!
Join IRC’s statewide literacy initiative going on from March to November 2014! Six books by Illinois authors are selected for each age range (birth-adult) to promote reading and literacy at all ages. Get involved through book clubs, author events, online blogs, Skype visits, and other fun activities!

Autograph Schedule

Convention Center Exhibit Area

Prior to each autographing session, please purchase the books you wish to be autographed. Books are available at each author’s publisher’s booth or Anderson’s Bookshops booths in the exhibit area. Most authors will be signing in the designated area located at the back of the exhibit hall. A separate line will be formed for each author.

Due to the number of authors and scheduling, it will not be possible for books to be left for later autographing. Some authors will sign only their name and do no personalizing.

Each author will sign a maximum of three books per person when that person is in the author’s line. If an individual would like to have more than three books signed by an author, there are two options:

- a. Bring purchased books to Authors Signing Booth and ask for bookplates. (There are limited quantities.)
- b. Go to the end of the line and wait to have three more books signed by the author. The author may or may not have time to sign additional books because authors agree to sign for specific time periods.

Presentations by authors are listed in the program book.

| 8:00 – 9:00 | The Role of Reading Volume in Developing Readers | Richard Allington
Educator,
The University of Tennessee
Past President,
International Reading Association
Knoxville, Tennessee | Current research indicates most elementary school children spend less than 20 minutes of each reading block engaged in reading. The research also indicates that those few children who read 60-90 minutes daily are our best readers. | Center B-11B
(K-8) | Sponsored by Scholastic |
| 9:00 – 9:00 | Assess, Decide, and Guide: The Keys to Helping All Readers Meet the Common Core Standards | Maria Walther
Educator/Author
Aurora, Illinois | To help students become thoughtful, independent readers who achieve Common Core Standards, it’s essential to know students’ instructional needs and surround them with guided reading support. Join Maria as she shares a powerful framework and practical tips for using data to make instructional decisions and guide readers. | Center B-11CD
(K-3) | |
| 10:00 – 11:00 | Sandwiches in the Spotlight – Using Creative Dramatics to Enhance Vocabulary Instruction | Emily Hayden, Alison Gilchrist
Joseph Sears School, Kenilworth | Sandwiches in the Spotlight will highlight vocabulary building through the wonderful world of creative dramatics for early elementary students. Performing plays expands and enhances the knowledge and application of vocabulary in a multisensory, multidimensional way. | Center B-4W
(K-3) | |
| 11:00 – 12:00 | Close Reading Across Multiple Text Types | Michael Manderino
Educator/Author
Northern Illinois University
Dekalb, Illinois | The Common Core State Standards delineate skills needed to deeply comprehend and write about a variety of texts. This session will examine the role of close reading with a variety of text representations. Ways to support student reading and writing with multiple text types will be addressed. | Center B-1
(All) | |
| 12:00 – 1:00 | Revisiting the Concept of Reading Instructional Level | Darrell Morris
Educator/Author
Appalachian State University
Boone, North Carolina | Recently, the venerable concept of “reading instructional level” (95% accuracy and 75% comprehension) has come under attack. Shanahan (2011), for example, stated: “Basically we have put way too much confidence in an unproven [instructional level] theory. The model underlying that theory is too simplistic.” This presentation is essentially a rejoinder to Shanahan and a defense of instructional level in reading. However, it is a defense that adds fluency (or rate) to the aforementioned accuracy and comprehension criteria. Using constructs borrowed from automaticity theory and the “simple view of reading” (Gough & Tunmer, 1986), I argue that teaching a child to read at the correct difficulty level is still of central importance. | Center B-2
(All) | |
| 1:00 – 2:00 | More than the Common Core: Empowering Students with Authentic Literacy | Michelle Brezek, Christine Jantz, Beatriz Lopez
Emerson Elementary School, Berwyn | From basals and test prep to authentic literacy practice, our school now empowers students to develop a love of reading that will transform their lives. Share our journey. P.S. We’re still achieving the Common Core. | Center Murphy Room (VIP)
(K-9, ELL, Spec, Admin) | |

Think Small – No Smaller, and Watch the Growth

Kathleen Jones
American Reading Company, Chicago
Kenya Sadler, Stacey Boyd
W.H. Brown Elementary, Chicago

Find out why the Kindergarten and First grade students at W. H. Brown Elementary School outpace their peers in reading. By letting go of whatever does not accelerate reading growth, using a Common Core formative assessment tool to identify what each child needs to master in order to move to the next reading level, and providing a framework for best practices to target mastery of skills, we are ensuring early literacy success for all grade K and 1 students.

16. 8:00 – 9:00

Everybody Has A Story: Using Feature Articles and Interviews to Teach Expository Writing

Christine Voreis
CUSD #303, St. Charles

Feature Articles grasp the attention of intermediate and middle level readers. Turn that high interest informational reading into high interest informational writing. This unit incorporates a variety of Common Core standards and 21st Century Skills.

Center B-6W (4-9)

17. 8:00 – 9:00

Harvesting Interest in Informational Text Through Intriguing Inquiry

David Bates
DePaul University, Chicago

Using sample lessons and activities focusing on Abraham Lincoln, participants will be introduced to the abundant informational text and media resources available for free through the Library of Congress website. In addition, participants will discuss strategies for using these resources to foster literacy, ignite student inquiry, and align with Common Core State Standards.

Center B-8 (K-12)

18. 8:00 – 9:00

How to Love a Book

Juliann Caveny
Mt. Olive Junior High, Mt. Olive

Do your students LOVE books? Learn how to use worn-out books as inspiration and how to present the newest. We’ll craft, read, and write WITH and ABOUT books. From the basics to technology enhanced videos, these are ideas you can use Monday.

Center B-6E (4-9)

19. 8:00 – 9:00

Using Joan Bauer Books to Create Classroom Community

Mary Martin
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

Whether it’s facing awkwardness, developing friendship, experiencing loss, or other life issues that daily affect your classroom, build your students’ sense of community and reading comprehension through engaging and practical ideas using Joan Bauer YA novels.

Center B-7W (4-9)

The Suspension of Disbelief

Andrew Clements
Author
Westborough, Massachusetts

Each time a reader picks up a novel, each time someone attends a play or watches a movie, the suspension of disbelief becomes part of the process—and almost anyone who’s taken a literature course has come upon this term. The suspension of disbelief is a sort of hurdle which a reader or viewer must overcome before he or she decides to willingly go along for a fictional ride. I want to expand the discussion of this idea to explain how I think about the suspension of disbelief as I try to write stories children will want to read. And more importantly, I think this concept can extend to the ways we teach children to love both reading and thinking.

Success with the COMMON CORE, Grammar Jingles, the Writing Traits and much MORE
Michael Schafstall
Shurley Instructional Materials, Carmel, IN
Becky Moran
St. Patrick School, Washington
My students act like they have never heard of a noun! Did their teacher ever teach the parts of speech last year? I cannot even get them to write a complete sentence, let alone a paragraph. In this session, you will see students who have successfully resolved these issues with a strong skill-based, multi-sensory approach. Observe how effective writing traits are seamlessly woven together in this dynamic pathway to literacy.

45. 9:15 – 10:15
Exploring the Complexities of Informational Texts with Young Readers

Donna Ogle
Educator/Author
National Louis University
Chicago, Illinois

Comprehending informational texts is a complex task for developing readers. These texts (informational trade books, news articles, textbooks, primary source documents, and on-line resources) vary considerably in the supports and challenges they provide. As students move up the grades, the discipline-specific demands also diverge considerably. In this workshop we will focus on several of these challenges and ways teachers can prepare students to be confident and flexible in navigating and comprehending multiple types of learning materials. Donna’s suggestions for teaching with informational texts are grounded in research projects she has directed in Chicago (Mid-tier, Project ALL and Striving Readers) and Evanston where Partner Reading and Content, Too (PRC2) is being refined through a professional development grant. Assessments, supportive instructional contexts, and specific literacy activities at a variety of grade levels will be demonstrated.

The Suspension of Disbelief

Andrew Clements
Author
Westborough, Massachusetts

Each time a reader picks up a novel, each time someone attends a play or watches a movie, the suspension of disbelief becomes part of the process—and almost anyone who’s taken a literature course has come upon this term. The suspension of disbelief is a sort of hurdle which a reader or viewer must overcome before he or she decides to willingly go along for a fictional ride. I want to expand the discussion of this idea to explain how I think about the suspension of disbelief as I try to write stories children will want to read. And more importantly, I think this concept can extend to the ways we teach children to love both reading and thinking.

Integrating art and literacy provides an engaging and powerful approach to develop the core thinking skills needed for CCSS success. By using both visual art works and written texts that elaborate on the art, teachers can guide students into deeper and more engaging close reading, interpretation, and integration of ideas. In this session we will share activities and resources for teachers to develop students’ engagement and deep thinking using art as text. These include leading close “reading” of art works, reading across texts (art works and informational articles) and analyzing the craft and style of the artists. Video clips of these activities will illustrate ways to use them with students to develop critical thinking. We will also share resources that are available for teachers from the Terra Foundation. This sessions reports on the two-year project, American Art at the Core of Learning, funded by the Terra Foundation for American Art, Chicago, that involved art educators from 12 galleries and museums and teacher leaders (grades 3-12) from the Chicago area.

Preventing Reading Failure in Grades K-2: What Have We Learned?

Darrell Morris
Educator/Author
Appalachian State University
Boone, North Carolina

Taking a historical perspective on beginning reading instruction, this presentation posits three constants or imperatives that have emerged from the pendulum-like change of the past 30 years: (1) a leveled book curriculum; (2) a leveled word study curriculum; and (3) a teacher-training capacity. I argue that a serious focus on these three areas would significantly reduce reading failure and also go a long way toward clearing up confusion and controversy that continue to dog the field of beginning reading.

Beginning Readers Are Not Just Small Versions of Readers! Scaffolding Beginning Readers to Complex Text

Kathy H. Barclay
Educator
Rowland Reading Foundation
Macomb, Illinois

K-2 students are at a unique stage of development, forming neural pathways to unlock the alphabetic code in order to make sense of text. The Common Core challenges teachers to provide “regular practice with complex text and its academic language.” To ensure students can read increasingly complex texts, teachers need to provide a strong foundation in the critical K-2 years. This session will examine what complex text means in the primary grades and how to provide instruction so that children learn to “read like a detective.”

Complex Texts, Complex Tasks, Complex Times

Jennifer I. Berne
Educator/Author
Northern Illinois University
Evanston, Illinois

Sophie Degener
Educator/Author
National Louis University
Evanston, Illinois

Teachers are being asked to work with students in complex texts and on complex tasks related to those texts. It is no longer appropriate to instruct children in texts that are overly simplified. It is also no longer acceptable for a student to spit back a literal text summary. Students are required to apply reading of these complicated texts to their old conceptions and to create new understandings from this interaction of background knowledge and text construction. This ambitious agenda is both exciting and terrifying as these difficult literacy skills will be the cornerstone of the high stakes tests that are said to define both student and teacher success. This presentation focuses upon real supports for teachers as they go about changing their practices to incorporate responsive new models for close reading of complex texts. In this session, participants will be introduced to the problems of particular texts, that is, what makes them complicated for students and concrete strategies for working with students to overcome the hurdles presented by text and task complexity.

The Suspension of Disbelief

Andrew Clements
Author
Westborough, Massachusetts

Each time a reader picks up a novel, each time someone attends a play or watches a movie, the suspension of disbelief becomes part of the process—and almost anyone who’s taken a literature course has come upon this term. The suspension of disbelief is a sort of hurdle which a reader or viewer must overcome before he or she decides to willingly go along for a fictional ride. I want to expand the discussion of this idea to explain how I think about the suspension of disbelief as I try to write stories children will want to read. And more importantly, I think this concept can extend to the ways we teach children to love both reading and thinking.

Rafe Esquith delivers an unforgettable keynote—an informal state of education address—often accompanied by some of his students. He shares his methods for turning kids on to the wonder of learning, the power of the imagination, and the wealth of finding oneself. He touches on classroom issues (the best techniques for teaching various subjects, how to overcome budgetary constraints) and shows you how—by teaching them hard work, kindness, and the courage to go one’s own way—his students have learned to adapt and to prosper in even the toughest of circumstances. Rafe Esquith is an upbeat, revitalizing speaker—a must-see for anyone concerned with the future success of our nation’s children.

The Prairie State Award for Excellence in Writing for Children honors an Illinois author whose body of work demonstrates excellence, engenders a love of literature, and embraces an important part of the Illinois Reading Council Mission – to promote lifelong literacy.

Congratulations!

TOM LICHTENHELD

Welcome IRC’s newest Prairie State Award winner Tom Lichtenheld. Tom doodled his way through school then worked as a sign painter, set designer, printer and advertising art director. After a successful career in advertising he gradually made the switch to creating children’s books. Tom’s books, many of which are New York Times Best Sellers, are consistently praised for their humor, expressive characters, and rich – sometimes hidden – detail. He’s known for creating books that appeal to children and adults alike, and his wide portfolio of books offers something for every age. Tom Lichtenheld will be honored at the Illinois Reading Council Conference on Thursday evening, October 2nd, at the Prairie State Award Banquet. Tom will also be part of the Hear the Authors Read event following the Thursday PSA Banquet, and three featured author sessions throughout the conference. Please join IRC in congratulating Tom Lichtenheld.

High Leverage Methods for Lifting the Level of Students’ Reading and Writing: Reaching Toward Common Core State Standards

Lucy Calkins
Founding Director
The Reading and Writing Project
New York, New York

Lucy Calkins will suggest that writing the Common Core State Standards was the easy part: teaching in ways that accelerate students’ literacy development so they can meet those ambitious standards is the hard part. The challenge is clear—but the pathway forward is not. Calkins will talk about powerful high-leverage methods for ramping up the level of students’ reading and writing. You will hear ways to use guided practice, up-the-ladder exemplars, learning progressions, and self-assessment to accelerate students’ progress. Most of all, you’ll hear about the importance of turning the CCSS from a mandate to a mission.

Teaching with Challenging Text
Timothy Shanahan
Educator/Author
University of Illinois
Chicago, Illinois

The Common Core State Standards require that students in grades 2 through 12 be taught with challenging text. This requirement both increases the text levels usually associated with the various grades and discourages teaching students reading with texts outside their grade levels, requirements that challenge the approaches of guided reading, Accelerated Reader, and those of most core reading programs. This presentation will explore the wisdom of those changes and will explain how teachers can teach reading successfully with challenging text.

Art as a Manuscript
Jerry Pinkney
Author
New York, New York
In this presentation, Jerry Pinkney will discuss the impact of the first stories he encountered as a child, both through the written word and through the Southern oral tradition, and the ways in which they influenced his journey to becoming a narrative artist. Jerry discovered his passion for picture-making early on, but stories such as “The Ugly Duckling,” “Aesop’s Fables,” “The Tales of Uncle Remus,” and “The Legend of John Henry” helped shape his interest in American and world history, his strong reverence for nature, and his desire to develop artistic practices imbued with family roots. Jerry will share some of his personal history growing up in 1940’s Philadelphia, including the mentors who encouraged him, and how being dyslexic stoked a fascination with language and a need for creative expression. He’ll also give insight into his artistic process, from deciding which projects to pursue, to in-depth research, dreaming up ideas, exploring different mediums, progress drawings and paintings, and the joy of seeing the final story come to life.

Mentor Texts for the 6 Writing Traits and Common Core Strategies

Joyce Jeewek
Benedictine University, Lisle

A basket of children’s literature by Illinois authors is a goldmine to a teacher! Explore the journey of how teachers use Mentor Texts as examples for the 6 Traits of Writing. Common Core strategies connecting reading and writing are also presented. It makes sense to have students examine how authors use their ideas, organization, voice, word choice, sentence fluency and conventions in their writing. Introducing local authors to our students is a bonus!

A. Lincoln Freeport A (K-9, ELL, Spec, Admin)
Recently, the venerable concept of “reading instructional level” (95% accuracy and 75% comprehension) has come under attack. Shanahan (2011), for example, stated: “Basically we have put way too much confidence in an unproven [instructional level] theory. The model underlying that theory is too simplistic.” This presentation is essentially a rejoinder to Shanahan and a defense of instructional level in reading. However, it is a defense that adds fluency (or rate) to the aforementioned accuracy and comprehension criteria. Using constructs borrowed from automaticity theory and the “simple view of reading” (Gough & Tunmer, 1986), I argue that teaching a child to read at the correct difficulty level is still of central importance.

What Struggling Readers Need

Brandi Noll
Educator
The University of Akron
Akron, Ohio

This session will focus on some key components that should be found within both whole group and small group literacy instruction and intervention. Within whole group instruction, the focus will be on including some key components that will benefit the struggling readers the most, while at the same time not ‘harming’ the other students. Within small group, the focus will be on using frameworks, materials, and strategies that are most beneficial for progressing authentic literacy abilities for children who struggle.

Complex Texts, Complex Tasks, Complex Times

Jennifer I. Berne
Educator/Author
Northern Illinois University
Evanston, Illinois

Sophie Degener
Educator/Author
National Louis University
Evanston, Illinois

Teachers are being asked to work with students in complex texts and on complex tasks related to those texts. It is no longer appropriate to instruct children in texts that are overly simplified. It is also no longer acceptable for a student to spit back a literal text summary. Students are required to apply reading of these complicated texts to their old conceptions and to create new understandings from this interaction of background knowledge and text construction. This ambitious agenda is both exciting and terrifying as these difficult literacy skills will be the cornerstone of the high stakes tests that are said to define both student and teacher success. This presentation focuses upon real supports for teachers as they go about changing their practices to incorporate responsive new models for close reading of complex texts. In this session, participants will be introduced to the problems of particular texts, that is, what makes them complicated for students and concrete strategies for working with students to overcome the hurdles presented by text and task complexity.

The Illustrator’s Eye, Real and Imagined

Jerry Pinkney
Author
New York, New York

Using a Powerpoint presentation, readings, and a drawing demonstration, Jerry Pinkney will focus on the decisions leading up to developing a book project: Why tell this story? How is the best way to achieve it? Consider the reader--can this story serve as artistic muse? And are there some aspects of the story that touch on personal experience? These elements need to be in place on that first read of the text, and Jerry will discuss the ways in which he finds his own vision and grows to have a fuller understanding of his subjects. A slideshow will include details about Jerry’s art-making process, from rough thumbnail sketches to drawings in progress, and from dummy books to final art. There is nothing like the joy of completing a project and having a book to hold in your hands!

Teaching with Challenging Text

Timothy Shanahan
Educator/Author
University of Illinois
Chicago, Illinois

The Common Core State Standards require that students in grades 2 through 12 be taught with challenging text. This requirement both increases the text levels usually associated with the various grades and discourages teaching students reading with texts outside their grade levels, requirements that challenge the approaches of guided reading, Accelerated Reader, and those of most core reading programs. This presentation will explore the wisdom of those changes and will explain how teachers can teach reading successfully with challenging text.

The Next Step in Differentiated Literacy Centers: Brain-Based, Multilevel Practice Designed for the Common Core

Margo Southall
Educator/Author
New York, New York

Examine a year of differentiated comprehension, fluency, word study, and writing centers. Streamline implementation of independent practice linked to whole and small-group instruction in CCSS for ELA in each of grades K-2. Meet the challenge of implementing a differentiated literacy center program that is aligned with both the data-based needs and the learning preferences of your students. Incorporate these brain-friendly, multilevel independent practice tasks designed with supportive features to ensure Common Core State Standards are accessible to every student. Target the literacy goals of your students and make a year of differentiated literacy centers doable and sustainable for you!

Understanding Text Complexity: Matching Books to K-3 Readers

Linda Dorn
Educator/Author
University of Arkansas
Little Rock, Arkansas

The Common Core State Standards expect students to be able to read texts that increase in complexity and sophistication as they progress through the grades. For K-1 readers, teachers should match texts to students’ instructional needs, while also providing them with opportunities to acquire the vocabulary and structures of more complex texts through listening and speaking activities. Beyond first grade, students will be expected to read more complex texts with and without teacher scaffolding. This session will examine these issues with implications for teaching K-3 readers.

Art as a Manuscript

Jerry Pinkney
Author
New York, New York

In this presentation, Jerry Pinkney will discuss the impact of the first stories he encountered as a child, both through the written word and through the Southern oral tradition, and the ways in which they influenced his journey to becoming a narrative artist. Jerry discovered his passion for picture-making early on, but stories such as “The Ugly Duckling,” “Aesop’s Fables,” “The Tales of Uncle Remus,” and “The Legend of John Henry” helped shape his interest in American and world history, his strong reverence for nature, and his desire to develop artistic practices imbued with family roots.

Jerry will share some of his personal history growing up in 1940’s Philadelphia, including the mentors who encouraged him, and how being dyslexic stoked a fascination with language and a need for creative expression. He’ll also give insight into his artistic process, from deciding which projects to pursue, to in-depth research, dreaming up ideas, exploring different mediums, progress drawings and paintings, and the joy of seeing the final story come to life.

Moving Beyond Quick Assessments, Paperwork, and Flow Charts: RtI Actions That Truly Affect Teaching and Learning in Literacy

Brandi Noll
Educator
The University of Akron
Akron, Ohio

Response to Intervention (RTI) is a buzz phrase heard throughout many districts. Although most people are talking about it and likely “doing” something about it as well, many schools are simply spending too much time and effort within the areas that are not making a noticeable difference in achievement. In some schools, there seems to be a heavy focus on some concepts within RTI that are easy to “check off,” while other more complex issues are provided little attention and time. We will sort through the plethora of concepts and terms related to RTI to determine which ones deserve the most attention within schools, in order that our struggling students really become better readers and writers.

Request for Membership on IRC Standing and Special Committees

Please consider becoming more involved in the Illinois Reading Council. Members of the local reading councils may submit their own names for consideration. Below are brief descriptions of committee goals.

IRC STANDING COMMITTEES:

Budget, Finance, and Strategic Planning Committee - Prepare a yearly budget, report on the audit, and review dues structure. Work to establish a well-defined vision for the future of IRC.

Bylaws, Policies and Procedures Committee - Review and update the IRC bylaws and policies.

Conference Committee - Make plans for the annual conference of the council.

Membership Committee - Stimulate membership of IRA, state, local, and special interest councils.

Nominating Committee - Prepare a slate of candidates for IRC Vice President, Recording Secretary, and Treasurer.

Organization/Council Bylaws Committee - Act as liaison between IRA and local and special interest councils.

IRC SPECIAL COMMITTEES:

Advocacy Committee - Gather and disseminate information concerning legislation related to reading.

Educational Initiatives and Professional Development - Share best practices in educational initiatives and effective professional development to support all grade levels and content areas.

Educational Media Committee - Assist state, local, and special interest councils with newspapers in education and with the integration of technology and literacy.

Family Literacy Committee - Collect and disseminate information concerning adult, parent, and family literacy.

Illinois Reads/Prairie State Award Committee - A yearly statewide project to encourage reading for all Illinois citizens and also reviews nominations to select an outstanding Illinois children’s/YA author.

International Projects Committee - Address issues, provide resources, and encourage others to become involved in literacy projects in third world countries.

IRA Exemplary Reading Program Award Committee - Assist IRA in recognizing outstanding reading and language arts programs in Illinois schools.

IRC Literacy Support Grants Committee - Recommend financial grants for literacy projects.

Obama Literacy Fund Committee - Promote the importance of multicultural literature and focus on providing multicultural literature for teachers’ use.

Pamela J. Farris Rural Library Award Committee - Provide a classroom library to enhance the availability of quality literature for students to read in rural areas.

Publicity and Publications Committee - Provide templates and support to IRC and local councils to promote membership and events. Provide guidance in creating and publishing IRC materials.

Reading Educator of the Year Award Committee - Recognize outstanding teachers contributing to literacy.

Sticker Design Contest Committee - Promote the Static Sticker Decal Contest that encourages children to read.

Studies and Research Committee - Disseminate analyses and syntheses of research findings to IRC members.

MISSION

The mission of the Illinois Reading Council is to provide support and leadership to all who promote and teach lifelong literacy.

VISION

The Illinois Reading Council advocates quality literacy opportunities for all learners and serves as a primary organization that provides educators at all levels access to research, materials, and methodologies to promote and teach lifelong literacy and learning. Support of an active, well-organized system of local and special interest councils and state committees provides a viable network for communication, exchange of information, and grass roots involvement of a diverse membership. The IRC’s publications, special projects, conferences, and workshops stimulate personal and professional growth of educators.
